Travel back in time to the Bönigen of yesteryear

At the "Alte Pinte" village museum, you will discover the absorbing and remarkable story of Bönigen. The traditional building itself dates from 1772. On the tour of the museum, you can inspect a traditional farmer's kitchen and rooms furnished with items dating from the period 1730 to 1920.

Opened in 1985 as a village museum, the "Alte Pinte" holds three specially themed exhibitions each year in its museum and gallery spaces. Stroll around the permanent exhibition and find out interesting facts about Bönigen's past. Browse the absorbing history of the village and immerse yourself in historic tales of welcoming locals. The museum is housed in a typically Bernese Oberland chalet built in 1772. The authentically equipped farmhouse kitchen and rustic rooms provide a true insight into the everyday life of yesteryear. Alongside the array of furnishings, visitors can view all manner of fittings and personal effects dating from 1730 to 1920. Call in at this impressive museum for a journey into bygone days.
