Enjoy the peace and quiet of the Innerschwyz mountains
 The Nühusweidli trail runs secluded and quiet outside the winter sports resort of Stoos. The car-free mountain village at 1300 metres can be reached by the steepest funicular railway in the world. Ideal for those who want to enjoy the peace and quiet of the Innerschwyz mountains.

One walks through the hilly landscape past various farms. Far below lies the Muota valley, beyond the valley basin rise the myths and the Muota mountains. The climbs are always gentle. The same goes for the Brunnerboden, the highest point of the hike. The starting point is the mountain station of the old Stoos Railway. You walk comfortably through quiet and quiet nature to the valley station of the Klingenstock chairlift. Here you are welcomed by the pulsating winter sports life again and you have the choice between different mountain restaurants with sun terraces.
