Embark on a stimulating journey into the world of fragrances - with a visit to the Fragrance Museum in the Farina House. Here Farina invented the scent of the century, which still inspires the world today. In the scent museum you will experience three centuries of scent and cultural history, beginning with the world of rococo. A high-quality collection of art objects, paintings and furniture testifies to the worldwide connections of the Farina perfume dynasty. Get to know the world of the perfumer: Detailed explanations - on the extraction of essences or the development of enfleurage, for example - give a vivid impression of a perfumer's work, creativity and indispensable talent. The museum tour leads down into the original cellar vaults, where the fragrances were produced over 300 years ago. By sniffing different essences you will experience the world of fragrances anew.
