

PEGEL

bar / lounge

It may not be Cologne's most original pub, but perhaps that's precisely why Pegel (on the outskirts of the Belgian Quarter) offers the ideal backdrop to a great evening out. There are lots of comfy places to sit down – even in larger groups – and a range of live DJs covering a broad spectrum of musical styles. The music is never too loud and you can actually have a proper conversation! At the long bar with plenty of stools, it's easy to get chatting to other guests, and the fast and friendly team behind the bar keep you supplied with beer and delicious long drinks. This is a no-nonsense place with tasteful, functional furnishings, lots of space and, in the summer, even tables and chairs on the pavement outside. It's a concept that attracts a broad mix of friendly, fun people and provides the ideal place for extra-long evenings with good friends and people who may well end up becoming good friends. Pegel is always a choice everyone's happy with.
