An attractive, easy circular trail in the village of Schwenden, which nestles in the furthestmost end of the Diemtigtal valley. The route features no more than a few moderate climbs, and the puzzle stations are sure to keep the kids entertained. The route is marked with pink signposts.

Although the Diemtigtal boasts excellent road and rail links, it's frequently overlooked by ski enthusiasts eager to reach the slopes of Simmental, even in winter. cross the Senggibach river and the cross-country track out from the valley towards Senggi. The route is lined with cosy wooden cabins and snow-blanketed fields. The trail follows the edge of the woodland for a few metres and then dips towards Buechi; it then continues through the village of Schwenden along a narrow road before joining the main street. Follow the gently inclining road for approximately 100 metres. Then follow the paved footpath uphill to the left towards the chapel and then towards the sanatorium. After that it's just a short walk back over Egg to the starting point at Grimmialp.
