

Rhodo-Garten Dringenburg

Park/Garden

Rhodo-Garten

Colorful diversity of plants in the Siggelkow family's private garden.

Monika and Heiko Siggelkow have created a wonderful park-like garden from what was once an agricultural yard. They started out small more than 30 years ago and now have a good 8,500 square meters to work on. The garden has a great variety of plants with up to 50 years old Rhodes and a path through the adjoining small forest, in which numerous different rhododendron varieties and perennials have their home.

Two garden ponds of different sizes attract different types of insects. Here and there you will find seating to linger.
